To Flower Lovers

IT IS QUITE significant to note, especially at this time when there is a lull in business activity, that the appreciation of flowers and flower gardens is more pronounced than ever before. There was a time when only wealthy people could have beautiful yards, pools and fine evergreens. There was a time when the newer, finer things were beyond the reach of the average person. Those times are past, however, and they should be, as flowers, plants and trees are among God's greatest gifts to mankind and all should share them. Those who have worked among flowers and learned to appreciate their splendor can best know the truthfulness of this statement.

In presenting my Peony and Iris Catalog for 1932, I wish to call attention to the important fact that Kunderd's is a house of quality. I have dealt in flowers for more than fifty years. Many are my customers and they are living in all parts of the world. In all this time I have never overlooked the importance that the best is none too good. While I have always specialized in high quality, my prices have always been most consistent, quality considered. I have never been influenced by anything except that I should give the very best for a reasonable price. Upon that policy has been built the foremost institution of its kind in the world.

I am aware that flower lovers desire the best they can get and that they want a large list to choose from. I wish to inform everyone that I have listed in this catalog nearly all varieties of merit, excepting some of the higher priced varieties, which have been omitted to keep this list to a minimum in size. These varieties have been obtained, sometimes at great expense, from Europe and America. This is an accomplishment of many years. My collection represents one of the largest and finest in the world. If you are interested in any varieties not listed, I will welcome your correspondence about them. There are none better and the values I offer cannot be surpassed. I take pride in presenting this list and I am most happy to offer the foremost varieties at moderate prices. I am sure that these outstanding varieties at the prices quoted set a new standard of value. I fully guarantee my stock to be the very best. When you order from my catalog, you can be sure of getting the finest quality at reasonable prices.

Shipments made during September and October, Prepaid

In view of the present business conditions, I have attempted to keep this catalog to a minimum in size. Consequently, it has been impossible for me to list but part of my huge collection of Peonies and Iris. Some of the higher priced varieties have been omitted. I have perhaps the most complete collection of Peonies and Iris in the World and invite your correspondence on any variety which you do not find listed.

Peonies

LOCATION IS IMPORTANT. Select a location for your Peony bed that is well drained, and which will be in full sun at least part of the day. Avoid planting in low wet ground, close to buildings or large trees or among too much shrubbery.

PREPARATION OF SOIL. Peonies will grow well in ordinary garden soil, but extra care in enriching the soil will develop stronger plants and better bloom. Do not use fresh manure about Peonies. Prepare your soil well, spading it at least to a depth of from twelve to eighteen inches. If your soil lacks fertility, a handful of bonemeal can be thoroughly mixed with the soil around the Peony roots, being careful that no fertilizers touch the roots.

SETTING THE PLANTS. Set the roots, after all labels have been removed, in the prepared soil, in their natural position, eyes or buds up, and at a depth so that the eyes will not be over two inches below the surface after the soil and the roots have settled. Work the loose soil carefully around the roots, packing it firmly to hold the roots in position. After freezing weather, cover your planting with a light mulch of straw or leaves to serve as a protection during alternate thawing and freezing of February and March. Carefully remove the mulch before new growth starts in the spring.

The common mistake is planting too deeply. Watch and see that the eyes are not more than two inches below the surface. The roots should be spaced 3 ft. 6 in. or 4 ft. apart.

Iris

Iris should be planted in a well drained position either in full sun or partial shade. Set the Iris so that the top portion of the rhizome is left exposed to the weather. Plant 18 inches to 20 inches apart so as to allow sufficient space to develop. Remove all dead leaves early in spring. Cultivate frequently. The Iris is very easy to grow and will give excellent results with but little care.

Special Information and Terms

BOTH PEONIES and Iris are exceedingly easy to plant and grow. They give good results even in the care of amateur gardeners. Complete cultural directions are sent with each order.

In view of the present business conditions, I have attempted to keep this catalog to a minimum in size. Consequently, it has been impossible for me to list but part of my huge collection of Peonies and Iris. Some of the higher priced varieties have been omitted. I have perhaps the most complete collection of Peonies and Iris in the World and invite your correspondence on any variety which you do not find listed.

PRICES quoted in this catalog include all packing and delivery charges and are the lowest possible consistent with good quality.

SHIPMENT: Safe arrival is guaranteed to any point within the United States. Any claims for shortage must be reported immediately upon receipt of order.

ORDERS: You will want your Plants just as early as they are ready to ship, and to avoid any possible delay, you should place your order immediately upon receipt of this catalog. Orders will be filled as nearly as possible in the order in which they are received. Please use the order blank sent with this catalog.

TERMS: Remittances must accompany all orders for less than $5.00. In larger amounts a 25% deposit may be made when placing the order and it will be sent C. O. D. for the balance. Send bank draft, express or postal money order, or if more convenient for you, I will accept your personal check. Please do not send orders for less than $1.50 as these can only be filled at a loss.

LABELLING: All items will be properly labelled for identification.

GUARANTEE: Only first-class stock, whether plants, bulbs, or shrubbery, will be shipped and under proper conditions they will give the expected results. However, no guarantee can be given as to the growth or productivity as the disappointments are almost invariably due to conditions beyond my control.

Peonies may not produce typical blooms until the second or third year. Many fine varieties throw single or semi-double flowers the first year, and if not properly cared for may do so the second year, so withhold your decision until you have seen normal blooms. Iris should be allowed a second year to show best results.
